

Nick Gallent

I would like to contribute to Fortismere School's ongoing development and improvement. I have prior experience as a School Governor and a Charity Trustee. I am currently a professor of urban planning at University College London (UCL) and teach undergraduate and postgraduate students, having been involved with university admissions for many years and having qualified as a university teacher almost 30 years ago. I was head of a planning school with 600+ students for almost 10 years. Although I have spent my entire professional career in the higher education sector, I am also a chartered town planner and chartered surveyor. I believe that I could make a contribution to strategy and to operational matters. At another school, I was geography link governor and contributed to careers events across the built environment professions.
